It’s a fact of life: accidents happen. And when they happen, accidents can leave you with medical bills you weren’t expecting. Even the best health insurance comes with deductibles, coinsurance and other out-of-pocket expenses that can really add up.

With Accident Medical Expense from Assurant Health, you get help paying your out-of-pocket medical expenses so that when an accident happens to you, you can concentrate on getting well.

John’s story
John was replacing shingles on his roof when he lost his balance and fell, breaking his ankle as he landed. When he arrived at the nearby hospital, John was diagnosed with an ankle fracture and dislocation. Treatment involved surgery.

After the exams, physician fees, anesthesia, surgery and hospital care, John’s medical bills quickly accumulated, totaling $4,730. Though John’s medical insurance covered the expenses, his deductible was $5,000, which meant he was responsible for the entire $4,730. He didn’t have that much money in savings, but fortunately, he had an Assurant Health Accident Medical Expense plan that would pay up to $5,000 in medical expenses from an accident after he paid only a $250 deductible.
